SCHOOLMASTER SPREADEAGLED THE FIELD-TWO

Bright sunlight, a cool breeze, and all the usual attributes of a beautiful day in the country, combined with the presence of a gay throng, bedecked with the masterpieces of Metropolitan milliners and tailors, made the Country Club steeplechase course at Pelham charming picture indeed yesterday afternoon. The cturesque jumping races, over a country provided, to great extent, by Nasare herself with impediments the career of the fleet-footed thoroughbreds, had their customary interest, but from a social point of view the end of the Country Club's spring meeting was a fan greater success. One thousand or more of the best people of the city had gathered to witness bursts of speed which mostly failed to materialize, and yet even the losers in the unextensive betting-stand had the appearance of happy enjoyment which characterized

The track was soggy and sticky, and after a race or two was sadly ploughed up. The strain on the horses was therefore very severe, and the fields were of the races were more than interesting and picturhorses that did start were not in condition, and races were won by the default of better horses who should ot have been sent out at all. Willie Palmer, of whom much was expected in the fourth race, has had the distemper for ten days, and came out thin and weak. In the Country Club steeplechase, the great jumper 3im McGowan showed more sense than his trainers, after going once around with 179 pounds on his back, and he refused to move another foot. He needed rest after his great winning at Jerome Park on Wednesday, and through weariness struck his right fore-leg on one of the hurdles, cutting his knee badly. He will not ump again for a week or two.

A JURYMAN DEFIES THE CORONER.

they threatened the life of everybody who came in contact with them.

Coroner Levy said he had read in the papers that the Mayor had stated at a meeting to award contracts for electric lighting that the Coroner had tried hard to get a witness to swear that the Mayor was responsible for the death of Lineman Murray. "If the Mayor is quoted right," said Coroner Levy, raising his voice to a pitch that led the spectators to expect something scorching, "I must certainly use the English language in reply and say that this is a falschood."

A discussion as to when the next hearing was to be held was interrupted by Juryman Dilion saying "I will be in St. Louis next week, and if you go on with the case you'll have to go on without me. I can tell

"We'll find some way of keeping you here, even if it does inconvenience Mr. Cleveland," said Coroner Levy. "Yer won't," retorted Mr. Dillon, "I'm going to St. Louis on Monday an' all the coroners an' coroners' juries in the city won't keep me from going." Mr. Dillon is a Cleveland delegate to St. Louis om the Second Ward, and expressed his willingness to bet $100 to a nickel that he would " get there." spite Mr. Dillon, it was decided that the next hearing be had on Tuesday. Or Jenkins rold about the autopsy on Lineman Murray. All the soft tissues of one-half of the right hand had been burned away and his lines caps, which had been in contact with the iron sills, were burned and blackened. The electric fluid had entered at the right hand and left the body at the knees. There were no signs of heart disease.

SAD END OF A HONEYMOON.

An ill-dressed pair, whose days of youthful frivolity should have ended long ago, appeared at the City Hall on Thursday an hour before noon, looking for an efficial legally authorized to join them in the bonds of wedlock. The man explained that they were in haste to take the train for Syracuse, N. Y., and betrayed a disposition to be garrulous and consequential. The bride was more quiet and retiring, but as much could not be said for her toes, which were seeking an exit from her foot-gear. Alderman Butler happened to be in Committee Room No. 13, and thither the bride and groom were directed. The legal capacity of both as to age was apparent without inquiry on that point, and the Alderman, after a few questions, performed the ceremony and signed the marriage certificate. The names and facts required for statistical record were as fellows: John Howard, age thirty-five, of No. 416 Eas as renows: John Howard, age thirty-ave, of No. 416 Fast.

CLOSING THE EXCHANGE CLUB.

The Exchange Club. No. 67 New-st., has been closed, and he members were forced yesterday to seek other places or luncheon and refreshment. It was started nearly three years ago with fair prespects of success. The house that was selected was considered to be convenient to the Produce and Stock Exchanges, and it was bopod that a sufficient membership might be attracted to make the club successful. Since the establishment of the Lawyers' Club in the Equitable Building, the membership has ranging deprivations from 500 to about 450 and 450 and has rapidly declined from 850 to about 400, and the re-ceipts were found to be falling below the expenses. In those circumstance, it was decided at a meeting on Thursday, the end of a half year, to close the club. An assessment of $25 has been levied on the members, and this sum and the balance of dues will be more than sufficient to discharge all debts of the ciub. The furniture and alterations cost over $70,000 in cash. The president of the club said yesterday that the closing was not on secount of insolvency.
